

Oliver Rathkolb/Günther Ogris (Eds.)

Authoritarianism, History and Democratic Dispositions in Austria, Poland, Hungary and the Czech Republic

StudienVerlag

Innsbruck
Wien
Bozen

Contents

1. Introduction

Oliver Rathkolb

9

2. Theoretical framework and historical development

Aleksandra Ptasińska, Rossalina Latcheva, Christian Gerbel

11

Introduction

11

Short overview of the countries' historical development

11

Theoretical concepts

13

Authoritarian disposition

13

New political authoritarianism

15

Cultures of remembrance

16

Anomia

17

Group-related misanthropy

19

Initial working hypotheses

20

3. New political authoritarianism and group-related misanthropy: A four-country comparison

Rossalina Latcheva, Günther Ogris

21

Introduction

21

Methodology, data and aims of analysis

22

Concepts, measurements and interrelations

from a comparative perspective

22

Authoritarian disposition

24

Anomia

26

Guilt and co-responsibility as the coordinates

of a transnational Holocaust memory

28

The roots of the new (political) authoritarianism

30

What causes new political authoritarianism?

31

Attitudes towards minority rights

34

Concluding remarks

36

4. The reflection of authoritarianism, anomia and group-related misanthropy in remembrance of the authoritarian regime and World War II	43
4.1 Austria
Günther Guggenberger	43
Dollfuß, the failure of democracy and socio-psychological constructs.
What memories tell about authoritarianism, anomia and group-related misanthropy	44
Confirmation or contradiction? The survey results on remembrance and socio-psychological constructs in a historical perspective	47
The Nazi Era and socio-psychological constructs. Relations between remembrance, authoritarianism, anomia and group-related misanthropy	50
Towards the consolidation of a critical view on Austria(ns) in World War II?
The survey results on remembrance and socio-psychological constructs in a historical perspective	56
4.2 Poland
Piotr Buras	61
The memory of the past and transformation in Poland since 1989	61
Attitudes to democracy and authoritarianism in Poland	64
Images of the past and contemporary authoritarianism:
Investigating the lack of correlations	65
4.3 Hungary
Árpád v. Klimó	79
Introduction	79
Authoritarianism, anomia, and opinion on historical events	80
Authoritarian attitudes and the perceptions of the 20 th century dictatorship	86
Conclusion	89
4.4 The Czech Republic
Muriel Blaive	91
Introduction	91
Description, interpretation and contextualization of survey results:
The characteristics of the construct	91
Conclusion: Relations between collective memory and the constructs of individual authoritarian disposition, new political authoritarianism, anomia and group-related misanthropy	106

5. Comparative description and interpretation of selected survey results	107
5.1 Cultures of remembrance of World War II and the Holocaust in Austria, Poland, Hungary and the Czech Republic	107
Christian Gerbel, Rossalina Latcheva	107
Cultures of remembrance	107
Memories of World War II and the Holocaust in Austria, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia before 1989	108
The discontinuity of memory: 1989	112
Methodological approach and aims of analysis	112
Main results	115
Résumé	125
5.2 Historical perceptions concerning the changes of 1989 and authoritarian disposition
Oliver Rathkolb	127
Gender and memories of 1989	131
Ambivalent memories of 1989 in Austria	131
6. Epilogue
Oliver Rathkolb	135
7. Annex	141
Questionnaire	141
Selection of relevant literature	165
Endnotes	187
Authors	205