Acknowledgments

This volume began as an experiment – a conference titled 'The Nation and its Repatriates: Pieds-Noirs and Vertriebene in Comparative Perspective', held at the German Historical Institute in Paris (DHIP) in March 2012. This conference brought, for the very first time, two academic communities into dialogue that had hitherto remained separated; those working on the German expellees and those specializing in the French repatriates from Algeria. Most of the chapters published here were first presented at this conference. Others were written specifically for this book, which also is the result of many conversations between the editors and the contributors from Finland, France, Germany, Israel, the United Kingdom, and the United States.

We want to express our gratitude to our co-organiser Raphaëlle Branche and to the DHIP for providing the venue and funding for the conference, especially its deputy director Stefan Martens, Luna Hoppe, and Dunja Houelleu for their invaluable support in organizing it. We also wish to thank the Research Group 'Global Processes' and the Cluster of Excellence 'Cultural Foundations of Social Integration', both at the University of Konstanz, for their generous funding of the conference. Further thanks go to the 'Centre d'histoire sociale du XXe siècle' at Université Paris-I Panthéon; the Direction de la mémoire, du patrimoine et des archives du Ministère de la Défense et des Anciens Combattants; the Institut Universitaire de France; and the Center for Mediterranean Studies at the Ruhr-University Bochum, for their financial support.

We are grateful to those who gave papers, comments, and chaired sessions at the conference: Omar Carlier, Fanny Colonna (1934–2014), Sebastian Conrad, Fabrice d'Almeida, Béatrice Fleury, Jacques Frémeaux, Jean-Jacques Jordi, Piotr Madajczyk, Jürgen Osterhammel, Steffen Prauser, Hassan Remaoun, Maren Röger, Andrea L. Smith, Philipp Ther, Gregor Thum, and Jakob Vogel, and to all the conference attendees for their comments and suggestions.

We would like to thank the anonymous Palgrave Macmillan reviewers, as well as Pertti Ahonen, Mathias Beer, Christopher Clark, Mihran Dabag, Constantin Goschler, Volker Heins, Mischa Honeck, Jean-Jacques Jordi, David Lazar, Fabian Lemmes, Till van Rahden, Andrea L. Smith, and Nina Verheyen for their valuable advice on the project and on drafts of several contributions. Moreover, we wish to thank
