Contents

Foreword vii
Peter M. Nilsson

Preface ix
Heiner Fangerau

Circulation of Knowledge in the Baltic Sea Region: An Introduction 1
Nils Hansson and Jonatan Wistrand

Part One: Transfers of Medical Knowledge across the Baltic Sea

1 Gym Machines and the Migration of Medical Knowledge in the Nineteenth Century 15
Anders Ottosson

2 Gynecological Massage: Gender, Conflict, and the Transfer of Knowledge in Medicine during the Fin de Siècle 41
Michaela Malmberg

Joanna Nieznanowska

4 Smallpox in Malmö, Sweden, 1932: Disputed Knowledge of Infection, Contagion, and Vaccination in the Baltic Sea Region 87
Motzi Eklöf

5 The Politicization of the Temperance Movement in Pre-independence Estonia 113
Ken Kalling and Erki Tammikaar
Part Two:
Bridging the Baltic: Comparative Studies

6 Network Transfer: Paul Ehrlich and German-Scandinavian Scientific Relationships around 1900
Axel C. Hüntelmann

7 Dorpat University in the Late Nineteenth Century as a Transit Space for Psychiatric Knowledge: The Example of Emil Kraepelin and His Conceptualization of Melancholia
Maike Ratzoll and Frank Grüner

8 Sanatorium Narratives from the Baltic Sea Region and Early Signs of the Pathographical Genre: The Case of Harriet Löwenhjelm
Jonatan Wistrand

9 Biobanking at the Baltic Sea: An Analysis of the Swedish, Estonian, and German Approaches
Katharina Beier

10 The Simultaneous Embedment and Disembedding of Biomedicine: Intercorporeality and Patient Interaction at Hemodialysis Units in Riga and Stockholm
Martin Gunnarson

Notes on Contributors

Index