

Contents

Christoph Cornelissen and Marco Mondini

On the Mediatization of War and Peace since 1918/19 — 1

I. Visualization of War – Narratives of War

Marco Mondini

European War Literature in a Transnational Perspective — 17

Christoph Cornelissen

When History Went Public. German Historians and Their Journalistic Work during the First World War and Its Aftermath — 35

Hannes Leidinger

Visualizing the War. World War I as a Caesura in the History of (Visual) Media: A Relativization — 51

Federico Mazzini

Mechanical Vaudeville. Popularization of Science and the Trivialization of War in the US (1915–1918) — 61

II. Peace Illusions – The Media as Postwar Prophets

Michael S. Neiberg

“Where Did the Fourteen Points Go?”. The American Media and the Shantung Controversy — 79

Leonard V. Smith

Woodrow Wilson in Europe: December 1918–February 1919. The Mediatization of Radicalized Liberalism — 93

Étienne Boisserie

Asserting Czechoslovak Authority in Slovakia. Context and Obstacles in the Immediate Aftermath of the Great War — 109

Mirko Saltori

Conceiving a “Just” Peace for Trentino. Aspirations, Disputes, Boundaries — 125

III. From Hope to Disenchantment

Laurence van Ypersele

The Media and the Transition from War to Peace. The Role of the Media in the Popular Violence of November 1918, Belgium — 147

Giovanni Bernardini

Media, Propaganda, and Revolution. France and the International Spread of Bolshevism in the Wake of World War I — 159

Angelo Ventrone

The Italian Paradox: The Italian Media and the Myth of the Mutilated Victory — 179

Pierre Purseigle

Devastated Victors. Reconstruction and the Urban Transition from War to Peace in Western Europe — 197

IV. The Memory of Peace and the Media – National and Regional Contexts

Peter Haslinger

Visions of Stability and Anxiety. The Mediatic Building of Nations and Border Regions, 1918–1930 — 215

Barbara Bracco

The Failed Exit from the War. The Problematic Return of Veterans and War Wounded in the Media (1918–1945) — 239

Gabriele D'Ottavio

When the Decline of Europe Turned Topical. From World War I to Peace — 249

Maurizio Cau

The Execution of Cesare Battisti. Representation and Memory of a Media Event — 265

Contributors — 289

Index — 291