This volume has its origins in a panel on 'The Art of Generalship: Late Antique, Byzantine, and Chinese Ideals' held at the International Medieval Congress in Leeds in 2014. For this publication the scope of the original panel was extended to encompass the ancient Graeco-Roman world. In the course of its production several debts of gratitude have been incurred. We would like to thank all the contributors to the original panel, including those who were not able to contribute to the final volume: Doug Lee, Peter Lorge, Ken Swope and Jamie Wood. We are also indebted to the many colleagues around the world who acted as readers for the individual chapters and supplied helpful and constructive feedback. In addition, we cannot thank enough Edinburgh University Press for their support and extreme patience, especially Carol Macdonald. The schedule faced of course not just the usual obstructions to finalisation experienced by academics but also the ongoing Covid pandemic. Finally, Shaun would like to thank Richard for his immense contribution to the completion of the volume; he proved as excellent and positive a co-editor as he was a colleague at Cardiff.
