
Contents

Figures	vii
Acronyms and Abbreviations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
KATA BOHUS · PETER HALLAMA · STEPHAN STACH
Introduction	I
Part One Historiography
KATARZYNA PERSON · AGNIESZKA ŻÓŁKIEWSKA
Edition of Documents from the Ringelblum Archive (the Underground Archive of the Warsaw Ghetto) in Stalinist Poland	21
PETER HALLAMA
“A Great Civic and Scientific Duty of Our Historiography”: Czech Historians and the Holocaust in the 1970s and 1980s	39
BENJAMIN LAPP
The Conflicted Identities of Helmut Eschwege: Communist, Jew, and Historian of the Holocaust in the German Democratic Republic	63
Part Two
Sites of Memory
KATA BOHUS
Parallel Memories? Public Memorialization of the Antifascist Struggle and Martyr Memorial Services in the Hungarian Jewish Community during Early Communism	87
GINTARĖ MALINAUSKAITĖ
Holocaust Narrative(s) in Soviet Lithuania: The Case of the Ninth Fort Museum in Kaunas	109
YECHIEL WEIZMAN
Memory Incarnate: Jewish Sites in Communist Poland and the Perception of the Shoah	129

Part Three

Artistic Representations

ANJA TIPPNER

- Writing a Soviet Holocaust Novel: Traumatic Memory, the Search for Documents, and the Soviet War Narrative in Anatolii Rybakov's
Heavy Sand 155

DANIEL VÉRI

- Commissioned Memory: Official Representations of the Holocaust in Hungarian Art (1955–1965) 175

RICHARD S. ESBENSHADE

- Towards a Shared Memory? The Hungarian Holocaust in Mass-Market
Socialist Literature, 1956–1970 207

Part Four

Media and Public Debate

ALEXANDER WALTHER

- Distrusting the Parks: Heinz Knobloch's Journalism and the Memory of the Shoah in the GDR 231

MIRIAM SCHULZ

- "We Pledge, as if It Was the Highest Sanctum, to Preserve the Memory":
Sovetish Heymland, Facets of Holocaust Commemoration in the Soviet Union and the Cold War 253

STEPHAN STACH

- "The Jewish Diaries . . . Undergo One Edition after the Other":
Early Polish Holocaust Documentation, East German Antifascism, and the Emergence of Holocaust Memory in Socialism 275

Conclusions

AUDREY KICHELEWSKI

- Making Sense of the Holocaust in Socialist Eastern Europe 305

- Contributors 319