

Contents

ZVONIMIR STOPIĆ, JURE RAMŠAK, LIANG ZHANJUN, JOŽE PIRJEVEC:

Introduction | 7

SECTION I: SINO-YUGOSLAV RELATIONS

JOŽE PIRJEVEC: From Comrades to Revisionists and Back: The Vicissitudes of Sino-Yugoslav Relations from the 1930s to the 1980s | 21

LIANG ZHANJUN: Chinese Studies on the Causes and Fallout of the
Soviet-Yugoslav Conflict: A Historical Review | 79

LI YUNXIAO: Between Internationalism and Patriotism: The CPC's
Reactions and Responses to the Tito-Stalin Split | 93

ZHOU YUGUANG: Changing Discourse about Yugoslavia in the *People's
Daily* (1975-1980) | 117

SANJA RADOVIĆ: Sino-Yugoslav Relations in the 1970s: The Yugoslav Perspective | 137

IVICA BAKOTA: Between Mao and Deng: Did Sino-Yugoslav Rapprochement Come Too Late? | 163

SECTION II: CHINA, YUGOSLAVIA AND THE GLOBAL SOUTH

ZVONIMIR STOPIĆ: Coexistence vs. Coexistence: The Intersection between Yugoslavia's "Active Peaceful Coexistence" and China's "Bandung Spirit" | 193

WU YAO: China's Attitude Towards Non-Aligned Policies in Third World Countries (1961-1976): A Historical Study Based on the People's Daily | 221

JOVAN ČAVOŠKI: Between Revolution and Non-Alignment: The Sino-Yugoslav Competition in Algeria and the Global Cold War | 265

MATEJA REŽEK: Yugoslavia's Policy Towards the Middle East and Its Relations with Israel, 1946-1990 | 293

CHENG ZHENHAI: Chinese Mainstream Media Perception of US Attempts to Build Middle East Military Alliances in the 1950s: An Investigation of Reports from the People's Daily | 317

JURE RAMŠAK: Shared Premises, Disparate Outcomes: Chinese and Yugoslav Economic Engagement with Developing Countries (1971-1989) | 341

Contributors | 363

Index of Names | 367